Message from the Southeast Chair

Greetings from the Officers of the SCC Southeast Chapter.

This is going to be an excellent year. The chapter is starting the year with the annual March meeting in Chattanooga at the Public House Chattanooga. Cocktail hour will be sponsored by Colonial Chemical (Thank You!) with each person receiving one drink ticket at the bar and a glass of wine at dinner. Dennis Abbeduto continues to support our site selection activities on the eastern side of Tennessee, and Lisa Sloan continues at the House Chair selecting venues in the Memphis area. We could not do this without them. Thank you both!

Even though the Southeast Chapter is a relatively small chapter, I receive comments all of the time from people from all corners who come to visit our chapter events and comment on how much fun they have and how warm we are. We could not do this without all of your support, from coming to the meetings and partaking in the fun to being presenters and financial sponsors for our awesome activities. Thank you so much in advance for all that you do for the Southeast Chapter.

For the March 16th meeting, we will be treated with a presentation by Mark Chandler on "Formulating for Efficacy". We all know the importance of exceeding our consumer's needs and desires and this presentation should be very informative and helpful for those of us "on the benches".

Every year, the Southeast Chapter hosts five meetings: three dinner/presentation meetings, Suppliers Social event in June and Officers Installation in November. This year instead of the September dinner/presentation meeting, the chapter will host a CEP course to be held in Memphis with FREE registration for Southeast Chapter members! The Southeast Board members are in the process of selecting the topic, so stay tuned.

Looking forward to seeing you at our scientific dinner meeting on March 16th in Chattanooga. Please RSVP to Cubie Lamb, Chapter Secretary, clamb@jstrickland.net.

Sincerely,
Stephen Baldwin
SCC Southeast Chapter Chair

How to Label Cosmetic Products

by PERRY ROMANOWSKI

My first experience with cosmetic labeling came in college when I turned over the bottle of a shampoo and looked at the ingredient list. It was right around the time when I was learning how to name chemicals and I was confused why I couldn't recognize almost any of the ingredients. It turns out that the cosmetic industry doesn't follow the IUPAC system which is what they teach you in college. It follows the system set up by the Personal Care Products Council (PCPC) as described in the INCI Dictionary. See our previous post on cosmetic labeling and the naming conventions in it.

But the ingredients names in your formula are only part of the labeling process. You also have to follow the labeling rules laid out by the FDA that affect ingredient order, placement on the label, text size, language and more. Here are the relevant facts.

Cosmetic ingredient list

In the United States, it is a requirement that all cosmetics be labeled with their ingredients. The LOI (list of ingredients) is supposed to be printed on the container and needs to follow some rules when listing ingredients.

1. Ingredients above 1% need to be listed in order of concentration
2. Ingredients 1% or below can be listed in any order
3. Exception: Color ingredients are listed at the end

The names of the ingredients must be those found in the INCI (International Nomenclature of Cosmetic Ingredients) Dictionary.

Where does the list go?

Once you have the list, you'll have to put it on the package in the proper position. The FDA requires that it be put on the principle display panel which in most cases just means somewhere on the primary package where people can read it.

What kind of font?

To ensure that the ingredient list is readable, the FDA requires that the font size be no smaller than 1/16th of an inch unless your packaging is really small in which case you can make the font 1/32nd of an inch.

What language?

Products sold in the United States must be written in English.

What else do you include?

Other information you need to list includes:

1. Name of the product (e.g shampoo, lipstick, eyeshadow)
2. Name of manufacturer or distributor
3. Address of manufacturer including city and zip code
4. Net contents in container
5. Warning statements if required.
