Message from the Southeast Chair:

I hope spring is starting to touch the part of the country where you live. It was a long cold winter with many snows; the most in one winter in the south that I can remember!

The March meeting was a great success with 27 attendees; we're looking for even more attendees in April.

Our speaker in April will be Chris Johnson of Kinetik Technologies. Chris will present on natural preservation of personal care formulas—a very timely topic. The meeting venue will be Bhan Thai, a recently expanded restaurant that serves the best Thai food in Memphis. There is still an opening (only one!) for sponsorship of the refreshments; please contact me if you are interested. The sponsor will be recognized with a poster at the meeting and a thank you from the podium. We are also seeking event sponsors for our Supplier's Social Event on May 25th; silver, gold and platinum levels are available. We will be enjoying the "Taste of China" exhibit at the Brooks museum and live harp music will be performed...don't miss it! (additional details on page 6 of the newsletter).

Please also keep in mind that there will be an all-day CEP course on "Ingredients for Skin Moisturization and Emolliency" offered in Memphis on Sept 22nd. Vispi Kanga will be the instructor and the CEP course is free for Southeast Chapter members! The registration form will appear in next month's newsletter, or if you would like the registration form in advance, please contact Billy Maness. Don't forget enrollment for the CEP course is limited to the first 50 registrants.

I look forward to seeing you at our scientific dinner meeting on April 20th!

Presentation for April meeting

Moving on to Greener Pastures? Facing the Challenges of 'Natural' Preservation

ABSTRACT:

Growing concern regarding the fate of our planet has increased our collective awareness of how 'green' we are. The concept of living 'green' affects our every day choices, from what we drive to where we live. Maybe even more so, it affects what we choose to put into and onto our bodies.

Although natural personal care is not a new phenomenon, it has realized major sales growth in recent years. In fact, natural personal care has grown at unprecedented rates over the past 5 years and shows little sign of slowing down. While this movement signifies a major shift in our lifestyle, 'natural' personal care remains a confusing maze of ingredient lists and natural claims that too often reflect the emotional rather than rational needs of the consumer.

In his presentation, Chris will briefly review the natural personal care trend, offer definitions of 'natural' as they relate to cosmetic formulations and preservation, and provide preservative recommendations that fit this description.

BIO:

Chris Johnson began his Personal Care career in 1996 as Microbiologist for Brooks Industries/Arch Personal Care Products. He entered Technical Marketing in 1998 where he later served as Marketing Manager of Europe. In early 2003, Chris joined Croda Inc. as Marketing Manager for Hair Care before establishing Kinetik Technologies, a distributor of specialty raw materials for Natural Personal Care.

Chris earned his BS in Biology from Rowan University (Glassboro, NJ) while simultaneously achieving certification to teach the Biological Sciences.
